

The mission of CHARG Resource Center is to advance a model of genuine partnership among individuals who live with mental illness, mental health professionals, and the larger community through respectful and comprehensive services.

ESTABLISHED 1989

“I have been volunteering at CHARG for several years and am constantly in awe of all that is provided on a shoe-string budget. Both through the clinic and the drop-in center, folks who are typically marginalized in our society not only receive quality services, but also take comfort in having a place to hang out that is safe and welcoming. From therapy and psychiatric services, to dental and eye care, to social events and peer support, to holiday meals and camping trips, this non-profit is truly a jewel in our community.”

There, on the street they walk, stiffly and with pain from chemical strait jackets worn from the inside out.

They, with mismatched outfits, jarring the eye, and bodies swollen from bad diets, they make their stand with self-doubt and shame, never knowing how tomorrow will come.

They are my brothers and sisters in recovery, afflicted unfairly and smiling bravely, vulnerable to just the sort of kindness that comes so rarely to bless them in their discomfort.
